CRITICS LAUD MYSTIC ART EXHIBIT

Critics from the New York and Boston newspapers who attended the opening day of the fifth annual exhibition of the Mystic Art Association at the Broadway school house, Mystic, on Thursday, were unanimous in their opinion that this exhibit is the very finest ever given by the local artists.

The hanging committee, consisting of Charles H. Davis, Mrs. Charles H.
 Davis, and G. Albert Thompson studied the placing of the various thirty-four paintings with a fine sense of grouping, using much time and thought in their arrangement.
 Childs Hassam, N. A., exhibited three studies—Highland Light, a fine stretch of sea as the base of towering cliffs, Provincetown Street, showing the colorful foreign aspect of that famous old fishing town, and The Allied Plaza, a bit of New York street, with the brilliant coloring of many flags, fluttering in the sunshine.

As usual, the paintings exhibited by Charles H. Davis, N. A., were mar-vels of technique and taste. Perhaps the most beautiful is a large canvas, called The Return of Spring, a quiet, restful composition full of the tender greens and budding plinks of apple blossoms. If this picture is sold during the exhibition Mr. Davis will give the proceeds to the Red Cross.

G. Albert Thompson at one time director of the Norwich Art School, exhibited three canvases—February Morning, a remarkably realistic painting of snow and cloudy skies; The Old Homestead, showing an old white house, basking in the sun, surrounded by clumps of old-fashioned flowers, which supply a lovely bit of color. Mr. Thompson was in happier mood, perhaps when he painted The Old Homestead, showing a fishing smack in harbor at the close of day, with the glimmering lights from the cottage windows stream across the dark waters of the bay.

The Rocks, by J. Alden Weir, N. A., showed the master's brush in the wonderful greens and grays of the massive rocks, around which ancient ragged trees have wound their roots.
 Morning Toilet and The Boudoir, by F. C. Prince, N. A., were exquisite studies, showing minute and deli-ciate detail, delicately colored and con-

REV. THEODORE BACHELER APPOINTED ARMY CHAPLAIN.
 There is local interest in the following news item, since the brilliant young clergyman referred to is a grandson of Mrs. James P. Fuller of Norwich Town, his mother having been Miss Rebecca Hope Fuller: Rev. Theodore Bacher, pastor of the Congregational church in North Madison and son of Rev. P. P. Bacheler, pastor of the Congregational church in Tauntonville, has successfully passed his examinations for army chaplain at Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., and has been recommended to the army officials as physically and mentally fit for the work.

Rev. Mr. Bacher is a native of East Hartford and a graduate of Rockville high school. He received his A.
 B. in Roonoke college in 1914 and his D. D. at Yale in 1917. Although recommended, Rev. Mr. Bacher may not get an appointment for some time.
 Army chaplains are chosen in accordance with the appointment of relations in the different quotas sent overseas. If the majority are Methodist, more Methodist chaplains are chosen of any other denomination, and so on. If fortunate, Mr. Bacher will leave for overseas duty immediately.

 point the entire contingent was to board a special train for Newtonville, a number of friends were at the station to wish the boys good luck and each had received farewell gifts from relatives and others. A delegation of young men from the department of the Marine-Rockwell Arms plant in which William McCloud Skelly has been employed until called for service, was at the station to bid Mr. Skelly goodbye.

BODY COMES ASHORE
AT WETKAPPAUG BEACH
 The body of a man, badly decomposed was washed up on the shore, in front of the Bennett cottage, at Week-apaug Thursday morning. The body was discovered by John Snowden, a boy who is summering at the resort.
 Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and Medical Examiner M. H. Scanlon of Westerly were notified, and they went down at 10:30 o'clock to view the remains. The body had been in the water for some time and was badly de-cayed. It was impossible to make any identification whatever. It was the opinion of Dr. Scanlon that the body had been in the water for a month or more.
 An examination showed that the left leg was fractured at the ankle and the foot dangled, being supported by what flesh remained. The body was clothed in black trousers and a cotton shirt.
 He was about five feet and nine inches in height and apparently weighed about 150 pounds.
 In the hip pocket of the trousers were found a $50 Liberty bond of the last issue, No. 1,333,324, two $10 bills, three $1 bills, 10 cents in change and a blank identification card. He wore a scapular, which would indicate that the man was of Catholic faith.
 He wore a uniform suit which bore the makers' name, Carter & Co., size 36.
